The newest thing in journalism is the daily Argus, published at Bristol, by Barnes & Hammer, the first number of which is on our table. It is small in its infancy but promises early growth. It is withal a very respectably appearing little sheet, newsy and well printed, and published daily, except Sunday, at 5 cents per week. It is to be independent in all things, neutral in nothing. We believe it is the first penny paper ever started in this State. We congratulate the publishers on their successful start, and ing, what amount are for current or Gallon, at wish them continued success.
